DANGERS
OF A COLD

Norway People Will Do Well to Heed Them.

Many had cases of kidney trouble result from a cold or chill. Congested kidneys fall behind in filtering the poison-laden blood and backache, headache, dizziness and disordered kidney action follow. Don't neglect a cold. Use Doan's Kidney Pills at the first sign of kidney trouble. Follow this Norway resident's example:

Wm. O. Needham, retired farmer, Main St., says: "At different times when I have taken cold, my kidneys have become affected. Several years ago when I felt that my kidneys needed attention, I got Doan's Kidney Pills from F. P. Stone's Drug Store. They strengthened my kidneys, ridding my system of the excess uric acid and in a short time I felt much better."

Eight years later, Mr. Needham said: "I still gladly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. My confidence in them is as strong as ever. I occasionally use Doan's when I feel in need of them and always get fine results."

Price 60¢, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Needham had. Foster-McLure Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. 47-48

DEATH OF JAS. M. CHESLEY

James M. Chesley died at his home in Auburn, Sunday, Nov. 16.

Mr. Chesley was born in Buckfield, Aug. 30, 1858, the son of Samuel Chesley and Sally Lewis, who were among the pioneer stock of Buckfield and possessed of the those strong characteristics of the early settlers. By occupation the Chesley family were farmers and in that business the son was engaged during the greater part of his life.

On November 10, 1880, Mr. Chesley married Narcissa Jordan, a daughter of Benjamin and Annie Jordan of Buckfield. She was born June 6, 1860, and although but two years younger than her husband, is still able to do all her household work and has a keen appreciation of life and all its duties.

To this union three children were born. The oldest of these is Mrs. S. B. Ricker of North Auburn, died in 1915. The only son is George F. Chesley, a well known business man of Auburn, now in business with his son, Earl Chesley, in the Perryville Cash Market. The youngest daughter is Mrs. W. E. Whitman of West Paris. Among the surviving relatives are the following grandchildren: Nellie Ricker of Auburn, George Ricker of Lewiston, Clair, Helen and Earle Chesley of Auburn; and Ralph and Erlon Whitman of West Paris.

Mr. Chesley was a soldier of the Civil war and was a member of Company C, Eighth Regiment. He was in the army of the James under Gen. Butler and there he had a vivid experience.

Since 1899 he has lived in Auburn, having retired from the army in 1900, and in his earlier life he was one of the prominent farmers in Oxford county. He was in the shoe-making business for a time, in Auburn, becoming expert at the trade. Later he was engaged in this business at East Stoughton, Mass., for six years.

ORIGIN OF THE AIRDALE

The Airdale is a peculiar dog, and his origin is not easy to trace in all probability he is the result of crosses between the old rough Scotch terrier and the bull-terrier and the otter-hound.

Characteristics in the latter breed are very prominent in the Airdale of today. About 40 years ago the collies of the Valley bred for their fighting qualities, general ruggedness, keen intelligence and loyalty, their owners. The collies were a rough, hardy set, ready for anything, and their favorite dogs were bright, disciples of the school of hard knocks.

These accustomed to associate the name of terrier with a small dog are apt to be somewhat puzzled by the appearance of the Airdale. He, as a rule, is what may be termed a "big little dog," choice specimens sometimes weighing as much as 60 pounds, which means a dog as large as a heavy pointer.

The appearance of the Airdale at once reminds one of the Irish and Welsh terriers. In fact, the dog at first glance looks like a very large and somewhat coarse Irish terrier. A closer examination, however, will prove that he has no useless lumber, that he is all dog, and a very smart type of dog at that. To the otter-hound he owes much of his bone, strength, and his peculiar head. The mark of the hound, too, is apt to show in the ear and the narrowness of the skull. Careful breeding has about eliminated these undesirable features and the Airdale is, in fact, a dog of the same general type as that of the fox-terrier, has become a fixed characteristic.

The size and all the valuable qualities of the Airdale make him one of the best of dogs for the country, as they unite him for life in a being very powerful, he requires plenty of exercise. He should have his freedom, for a couple of jaunts daily upon a chain are by no means sufficient for him, or for any other active dog. As companion during tramps about the country, or with the run of a large suburban place, or upon a farm, this dog is one of the most desirable of all the canine race.

He is game to the last gasp, as becomes one of his blended blood. From the Scotch and bull terrier he derives his keenness for vermin, and his almost unrivaled fighting powers, while from the otter-hound he derives a marked hunting instinct and a readiness to work cheerfully in water, no matter how cold it may be. In his knowing-looking head is a rare good set of brains, and his nose is excellent. No dog is fonder of a rough frolic, and none is keener to tackle any wild creature, from rat to raccoon. But strong and ready as he is, he is blessed with a sweet disposition and a spaniel-like faithfulness. He will fight till he dies, for he does not understand what fear is, yet he is no bully. A generous friend and a fair foe, he asks no odds of any dog, and as he is a glutton to take punishment and an artist in administering it, he usually can give an excellent account of himself if attacked by a much larger dog.

About an American country home he is sure to prove useful and in every way reliable. He is one of the best of watch dogs, and he is large enough to command the respect of unruly intruders. As a vermin destroyer he has no superior, such large quarry as woodchucks and coons failing comparatively easy victims to his dashing method of attack.—All Outdoors.

MOTHS AMONG THE CLOTHES

Because our modern steam and furnace heated homes keep clothes closets almost as warm in winter as in summer, moths flourish in them during the cold months almost as destructively as in the warm months.

Wool clothing, velvet, furs, rugs, and even silk, and gorette are prey for the ordinary clothes moth, and the silvery little fish moth who is also fond of paper.

To prevent them from breeding the first step is to keep moth millers, the dull gray butterflies that lay the eggs from which the destructive moths hatch, out of the home. Screens, fly traps, and cleanings all help. Moth millers nearly always flutter about artificial light in the evening and should be swatted as vigorously as the fly.

If signs of moths are found in garments the place just occupied by the clothing should be cleaned at once, and the garments hung outdoors in bright sunlight all day if possible. They should be brushed thoroughly—particularly in the seams, close to the hem, and in pockets and under the collars.

To clean a closet, drawer or chest in order to make it as moth proof as possible, sweep and scrub it with soap and hot water and then touch up the cracks with a little turpentine. Paper saturated with turpentine may be placed about a closet as a safeguard.

Carpets and rugs infested with moths should be swept over with a mixture made in the following proportions: Three quarts of water. Turpentine to three parts of water. Carpets that are cleaned frequently with a vacuum cleaner are comparatively safe from moths.

Camphor, of course, is a standard remedy for moths, and a good old one, too, but, however, that clings to all clothing, and is not so effective as an all preventive against moth.

Black pepper is a good preventive to obtain. The best way to use it is to make a strong tea and sprinkle it over the garments which should then be rolled up in newspapers and glued so securely that no moths can get in. Moths best paper to use for wrapping.

Cedar is one of the pleasantest moth remedies, for it has a woody odor that does not permeate clothing disagreeably. Cedar, however, loses its value with age. An airtight cedar chest or closet is fine, but cedar shavings or branches are also helpful.

Bags of tar paper, which are for sale in many stores are very good for best size large enough to contain a dress or suit without folding.

Green cambric bags, will protect furs from moths if one is first sure that there are no moths already in the furs. It is as the cold storage method.

Whenever clothing is crapped up to be stored, it should be plainly labeled so that whenever an emergency arises it will not be exposed unnecessarily to a hunt for some desired article for this would mean taking precautions all over again with those garments which still must be stored.

Now is the time to begin to think about your Christmas advertising. You will want extra space. Plan out about the amount you will want and let us know early.

SELLING CAN HANDLES IN MAINE'S GREAT POTATO PATCH

Ashland is 50 miles south of Ft. Kent. You climb a long steep hill not many miles from town. It may be in some places as steep as Pike Hill. An extended view is got from it. Most of the Fish River Valley is heavily wooded. Black growth and cedar abound. Most of the farms are rocky. Small rock piles and large ones are numerous in some fields showing years of hard work and many backaches. Most of the people are of French descent having been crowded from the rich lands of St. John Valley. The farms are not larger neither are their houses but the people are numerous.

At Soldier Pond in Wallagrass Plantation I sold handles to T. F. Labonte and Martin Brothers at Eagle Lake. Here we come near stopping at a hospital thinking it a hotel. We did stop but an inquiry as to rights set us back.

We turned back and off the main road to a saw-mill village and found Eagle Lake with a hotel of that name. The Tinker Concert were apparently running the house. They showed there that night. We didn't see the old eagle. The headed eagle that made things lively about the place years ago. He has probably been killed or driven away. It is a lumber manufacturing place of importance.

From Eagle Lake to Portage is nearly all down hill with many steep pitches. The road is good but little cultivated land is seen. Portage Lake has a railroad station, stores and good looking houses. It was here the "carry" stopped and water transportation began in the old days.

Ashland is situated on a hill, that is, the village and it is a thriving place and well stocked stores. It is a trade center for a good deal of territory. Twenty years ago I fitted out here for a month's cruise in the woods. It has grown a great deal since then or my memory is defective. E. G. Howard then ran the Exchange the same as he does now but the house has been remodeled and made over. There are two other hotels and several garages in the village. It looks prosperous and as though it might be windswept, at some seasons of the year.

Several people asked regarding A. A. Towne of Norway and expressed the wish that he might have remained in Ashland where he was doing a good business and had many friends.

A partridge was driven out of the road before we got to Mapleton. Walter says there were two in a trap. The first partridge seen on the trip was near Milo and then some in the Nine Mile Woods—two dead one at Ft. Kent numbering eight all told. Three were in one flock. One woodcock got bewildered long side the road and came near being run over. In the 14 mile swamp between Howland and Pea Cove, road nearest the Penobscot, I saw two deer. They were the only living ones seen on the trip.

Somehow Mapleton and I didn't get on well. I was viewed with suspicion and told that nobody bought anything there: it all went to town (Presque Isle) and it was no use to stock up on handles. I inveigled Mrs. Jennie A. Ferguson to buy one for an old lady friend of hers. I insisted on putting the handle on a tin can and presented it to her for her friend with my compliments. This bold act of spontaneous generosity rather overcame Mrs. F. and she bought a dozen handles at the net price of 30c. Since my return she has bought a half gross.

Mark M. Brooks of Norway taught many terms of school at Mapleton 30 odd years ago. Mrs. Ferguson remembered the old school master and his quaint ways of teaching.

Presque Isle is the Metropolis of this section. It is of city size and proportion but under town management. "The Presque Isle" boasts of 70 rooms with and without baths. An elevator is needed as it is a big climb for a big climb for old people like mother and I not with standing the excellent view from the windows. The landscape hardly compensates for exertion. It was the best house had when we got there and accepted for one night only.

I know little of the town other than what J. Orin Smith and his sister, Edith, who occasionally visit there have told me. It is twice as large as Norway. No doubt of it. According to the map it has twice the area of Norway. Its postmaster gets or did in 1916, only two hundred dollars per year more than F. E. DeCoster of this place. Mr. DeCoster manages to live on $2200 and is happy. I presume the same conditions prevail at the Presque Isle postoffice. The Advertiser having a limited circulation here I did not seek out the postmaster to compliment him on the prompt business like manner of conducting his office.

I did send word to C. H. Collins, editor of the Star-Herald that I was coming to inspect his shop. I found it not far from the hotel in a basement of a long narrow building. It was well kept and supplied with modern machinery and looked prosperous. I did not ask if the water ed during the rainy spell and saw no evidence of it. I did see girls feeding the press and a man making up "forms". It was publication day.

The office must be dark in cloudy weather and I advised putting on the building light-reflector similar to those in use at the Lewiston Journal office. Possibly the electric light company would not thank me for this as it would lessen their revenue. On general principle I'm opposed to the national day-light saving scheme. I am an owner of stock and bonds of lighting companies and to use more day light is an assault on vested rights and my income. I have no holdings in the Maine and New Brunswick Electric Co. (Ltd) and can express myself without bias.

Did you ever consider who were the real opposers of Day-light Saving? The sentiment here expressed reveals it. It is not the farmer but some no doubt are inconvenienced by it. It is the promoters of artificial light. They worked the farmer full" and paid the lobby bills and get the law repealed all in the name of the tillers of the soil.

I must stop and return to the printing office or be accused of writing editorials on a national subject. I can not all on ways to refrain from expressing my opinion. Mr. Collins was so much interested in the my can handles that he searched for office and failing to find a suitable can went out and borrowed some from a neighbor and left him in a happy frame of mind.

At a "Good-Roads-Meeting" of the night before where many of the prominent citizens gathered.

Mrs. E. M. Holmes has gone back to the canning factory for a short time. Mrs. Lottie Gregg and daughter and Leon Dudley of Norway were at Clinton Mason's and Fred Scott's, Sunday.

The man who exaggerates can never understand why he is doubted when he speaks the truth.

Corns 'Tween Toes? Use Easy "Gets-It"

Any Corn or Callus Comes Off Peacefully, Gloriously, Never Falls. It is easy for "Gets-It" to reach "hard-to-get-at" corns, and better yet, it is easy to remove them, because "Gets-It" makes them come

Any Corn Peels Off With "Gets-It" right off just like a banana peel. You can try to dig or drag out your corns with a knife, or slice them with a "bloody" razor, or use bandages and tape and wrap up your toe into a package, but that's the "treat-em-rough" painful, foolish way. Use 2 or 3 drops of "Gets-It"—that's the peaceful, sure, common sense way that never fails. You reach the corn easily with the little glass rod in the cork of every "Gets-It" bottle. It does not hurt the true flesh. Try it, trot and smile. It's a blessing; never fails. "Gets-It" is the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, costs but a little at any drug store. Mfgd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. Sold in Norway and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by F. P. Stone.

OXFORD

Armistice Day
Armistice Day was a great day in Oxford. The parade formed at 2 p. m. in front of Robinson Hall led by the Brigade Band of Lewiston. Next came the Veterans, eight of them in an auto and four in line, twelve in all; then the boys in khaki, K. P. Sisterhood, the children from the primary school with flags waving, then followed a long procession of autos elaborately trimmed. It was hard to tell which one would win the prize. One represented the Red Cross, one the Ambulance Corps, one the founder of the Red Cross, and the Junior Red Cross, the Hospital Corps, one represented the Robinson Mfg. Co., and little Joseph Walker, four years old, dressed as Uncle Sam,
rode in a little auto drawn by two little girls. The one that attracted the most attention was Holden's Basket Mfg. Co.
It was elaborately trimmed and in a basket was two little laughing girls.
After the parade had made a circuit of the village, they had games until 5.30 when a nice oyster supper was served to the band, veterans and ladies, and ex-
soldiers and ladies.
At eight a concert in Robinson Hall of vocal and instrumental music was given.

Norway Armory Thing of the Past

Swords are not literally changed into ploughshares and pruning hooks, but the war-like appearance of the Armory in Norway Opera House Block is being remodeled to meet the needs of a modern cobbler's shop.

The E. N. Swett Shoe Co. has acquired the former home of Company D for the latest word in shoe repairing. The first floor will contain the work room fitted with every mechanical device for the work. George Davis, a well known shoe surgeon, will have charge of this department. A section has been set apart for a waiting room with easy chair and a table provided with daily papers. This convenience is to accommodate customers waiting minor repairs. Entrance is gained by passing through the shoe store to a floor in the rear, opening directly into the new shop.

The basement where the shooting range and lockers were located will be used for storage.

This peace move ends a long chapter in the military history of Norway, so far as the location is concerned. Company D, Second Maine Infantry, occupied the quarters from 1895 until officially closed sometime in June 1918 after recruiting ceased. The rooms have more than a local historical atmosphere and their passing into other uses will bring home many events transpiring there leading to the Spanish-American War; the launching of championship rifle teams; gathering for the Mexican trouble and the final scenes preparatory to entering the world war will conjure with a trace of sadness amid pictures of days never to return.

Oxford Council No. 14 held a red lettered convocation Friday afternoon and evening nearly two hundred being in attendance. At the afternoon session the R. and S. M's degrees were conferred on one of the largest classes of candidates ever before the council. At 6.30 a banquet was served in the evening. The Super-Excellent degree was conferred on twenty-two candidates and the lodge room was crowded to the doors. The banquet was in charge of John F. Swain and Lewis L. Gilbert and Chas. S. Akers. Bad traveling kept many candidates from attending.

Mentioning heavy hogs, Josiah Witham will dress at least 350 pounds each. They are growing with three squares every day and prospects seem good for the more weight before killing time.

USES OF WOOD FLOUR

More than twenty thousand tons of wood flour, valued at $300,000, are used annually in the United States in two widely different industries, the manufacture of dynamite and the manufacture of inland lumber.

Wood flour is also used in making composition flooring, oatmeal paper, and in several other industries. It forms one of the means by which the huge waste product of our lumber mills is beginning to be burned. Since a total of 36,000,000 cords of such waste is produced each year at sawmills in the United States, of which about one-half goes into the furnace as fuel while the rest is burned as refuse to get rid of, there is no lack of raw material for industries which can develop ways of turning this waste to account.

All wood flour-using industries require a white or very light cream-colored flour having good absorptive powers. The wood species that may be used are confined to the light-colored softwoods, and the white broadleaved woods like poplar, spruce, white pine and poplar are the species most used. Mill waste, free from bark, furnishes much of the raw material for making wood flour.

For use in dynamite, the trade demands are said to require a white wood flour, since the freshness of dynamite stock is indicated by a light color. Dynamite flour must also be very absorptive, so there will be no leakage of nitro-glycerine from the finished product.

Wheat flour mill refuse and industrial earth have also been used in dynamite making, but wood flour has practically replaced them in this country.

In the manufacture of linoleum, either wood or cork flour is used. The flour is mixed with cement, and the mixture is put on burlap and rolled or pressed to a uniform thickness. The cement is the expensive constituent. Cork linoleum is cheaper as less cement is necessary.

The patterns are printed on, leaving a dark base. For linoleum of straight-line inoleum, wood flour is used exclusively. Cork linoleum is always dark, and slightly more elastic than that produced from wood flour. The wearing qualities are about the same.

Two methods of producing wood flour are practiced; one using millstones, the other steel burr rollers to pulverize the wood. The latter requires only one-fourth as much power to operate as the former and was developed on the Pacific Coast to handle sawdust as a raw material. The mills of Norway which produce much of the European wood flour are of the stone type.

Wood flour mills are scattered over the country from Maine to California where, except for the proper combination of wood and water power is available, and the domestic wood flour competes with the Norwegian product which, before the European war, was delivered at Atlantic ports for $12.50 to $15 per ton.

How to Make a Real Strawberry Shortcake Biscuit

The strawberry in its shortcake form is deservedly popular, but not, perhaps, the cake dessert palmed off in place of the genuine biscuit basis on which all good shortcakes depend. Any dough mixture like that for baking powder biscuits, only made a little richer, is far more delicious combined with the berries than any piece of sponge or other cake. It takes only a half hour to complete a strawberry shortcake of two hot biscuit crusts, thickly buttered, spread with mashed berries, and garnished with whole ones. Any woman with two hands should be ashamed to offer an imitation shortcake of stale sponge cake when a delicious biscuit dough is so easy to make.

"ROOSEVELT" POST OF BRIDGTON

GOVERNMENT TAKES OVER WELFARE WORK IN ARMY

Y. M. C. A. and All Organizations Cease Camp Activities November 1st.

New York.—In compliance with official orders from the Government, the War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. on Nov. 1, transferred its welfare work activities as conducted in the temporary buildings erected during war times within the camps in the continental limits of the United States, according to statements just issued here by John S. Tichenor, national executive secretary for Y. M. C. A. war work in America.

The War Work Council has requested its 1,300 secretaries conducting activities in 593 temporary Y. M. C. A. huts in camps throughout the United States to consider favorably the desire of the Government that they continue as welfare workers under the direction of the War Department, which tomorrow officially establishes its own organization within the War Plans Division of the General Staff, under the direction of Major General W. G. Haug.

The Y. M. C. A. also at the request of the Government will transfer also without reimbursement its 593 temporary huts within the Army camps together with their complete equipment valued at approximately $4,500,000, for continued use by officers and men. This represents a small part of the volume of war work that was being carried on by the Y. M. C. A. at the time of the signing of the Armistice when it was operating in the United States 1,171 huts with 5,717 secretaries and other employees. In all the Y. M. C. A. constructed 953 buildings in the home camps, during the period of the World War at a cost of $7,768,984.

In a letter addressed to Dr. John R. Mott, General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Secretary of War, Newton D. Baker, has thanked the Association for "the efficient and tireless effort of the Y. M. C. A. in providing for the comfort and well-being of the men in the Army." The Secretary of War also requests the Y. M. C. A. to continue and enlarge its program in permanent Y. M. C. A. buildings outside of the camps and to provide new buildings as far as needed in communities and cities adjacent to camps for the service of the men.

Mr. Tichenor stated today: "The Y. M. C. A. definitely plans to continue and extend its service to the country's fighting forces. As a result of its twenty years experience and service to Army and Navy men, the Association has an effective organization and constituency, thus insuring an expanding and permanent program."

As requested by the Secretary of War, the Y. M. C. A. will continue its service to the troops in France, Germany, Siberia, the Panama Canal Zone, the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippine Islands until the Army is in a position to undertake this responsibility.

Action somewhat similar to the War Department has been taken by the Navy Department, according to Joseph Daniels, Secretary of the Navy. Y. M. C. A. to continue its work within the naval reservations at home until the Navy is ready to take over the welfare work.

From the Navy Department also, has come warm commendation for the extensive service rendered by the Y. M. C. A. Secretary Daniels writes: "The Navy believes that a large share of the credit of victory should be given our organization for its work in ministering to the men of the Navy and feels that the greatest compliment, the most sincere expression of its regard, lies in the decision to perpetuate your good work by means of a permanent organization within the Navy itself." He not only expressed the hope that the Y. M. C. A. program outside of the Naval reservations should be continued and enlarged, but he also desires to perpetuate in the welfare work within the Navy the peculiar genius of the Y. M. C. A. in its service to men and boys, and will order Navy welfare and morale officers to keep in touch with the Y. M. C. A. methods.

Permanent buildings of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. which will continue to operate, include the following: Brooklyn Navy Yard, N. Y.; Newport, R. I.; Norfolk, Va.; Charleston Navy Yard, Boston, Mass.; Vallejo, Cal.; at the Presidio, San Francisco, California; at Bremerton, Washington, D. C.; at Fort Monroe, Slocum, Jay, Tilden, Hamilton, Hancock and Leavenworth; and at Honolulu, Hawaii and Fort William McKinley, Philippine Islands. The Y. M. C. A. will continue its rented buildings in Philadelphia, San Francisco and Shanghai, China. Other buildings will be provided at numerous points in cities adjacent to Army camps and Naval stations according to the new plans of the Y. M. C. A.

The extent of the Y. M. C. A. war time service to men of the Army and Navy within the continental limits of the United States is indicated by the following figures, from the beginning of the war to September 30, 1919: the aggregate attendance at Y. M. C. A. huts was 383,332,990. Free stationery was furnished for 291,247,965 letters. Motion picture shows totaling 120,176 were screened in Y. M. C. A. huts with free admission. Recreational and mass athletics promoted by the Y. M. C. A. physical directors totaled 38,475,197 participants.

SOUTH ALBANY
Helen Holt has returned from her home at Norway where she spent her vacation. Richard Holt did not come back.
He will stay at home and attend school at Norway this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Canwell and children attended the silver wedding at Geo.
Briggs' in Albany, Friday evening. The gathering was planned by the two daughters, Yvonne and Irene Briggs and was a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs.
Briggs. A very pleasant time is reported.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Shedd visited her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Brown, Sunday.
Janie Brown, who has been visiting there for some days returned to her home here with them.

Ernest Brown recently sold a heifer to Merritt Savin.
John Lord and Mrs. Hattie Haskell of North Waterford were at Merritt Savin's Friday. Mr. Lord bought a cow and a pig of Mr. Savin.

Leon Lovejoy of North Waterford was in this place, Saturday, looking after some traps which he has set around here.
Mrs. Ed Jackson of North Waterford visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W.
York, last week. Mrs. York has been having a bad attack of neuritis in her arm and shoulder.

Lowell Henley has enlisted in the U.
S. Marines and has been sent to Parris Island, South Carolina. Lowell will be very much missed here as he is a very smart, likeable lad and stood high in the estimation of all who knew him. We are all sure he will make good and will climb high in the ranks in the future
which is all before him.

Mrs. E. C. Henley fell on the door step last week and consequently is lame at present. Mrs. Henley is visited by her cousin, Ernest Mills, from Vermont.
Will McAllister recently hauled a load of hay to C. J. Eastman at Lynchville.

Gardner Libby of North Waterford is building a garage at the turn of the road near W. S. Parker's mill. Mr. Libby is an expert at all kinds of automobile work and repairing. His increasing business requires more room. The garage is conveniently near the road and easily reached by all who are in any kind of automobile trouble.

Herman Holt recently sold part of his flock of barred rock hens to John Lord of North Waterford.
Leon Kimball's cow which broke her leg near the ankle some time ago, seems to be getting along well and they hope to save it.

Thanksgiving Time
We had very little snow and that nearly all gone. With Thanksgiving only about one week ahead, it hardly seems as though one would have to make their way through deep drifts of snow to eat Thanksgiving dinner at the old home with grandfathers and grandmothers as we used to years ago. They can sit in their comfortable car and speed over the ground at an astonishing rate. But, will there be any more real enjoyment than when after the struggle through the drifts
the heavily loaded pung drew up to the old home door and was greeted with such hilarious shouts and laughter and uncles, aunts and cousins were pounced upon and carried bodily into the seat of such happy sights, sounds and smells that,
needless to say, are never to be forgotten.

Mrs. Stella McKen is doing spinning for several parties. Women who can handle the old fashioned spinning wheel are getting pretty scarce and when one is found, she is in good demand. Wages for such work should have the rise that other work is getting, surely.

ALBANY
Mr. and Mrs. George Briggs were pleasantly surprised Friday evening, in being their 25th anniversary, when a goodly number of neighbors, and friends
walked in and spent a pleasant evening.
Refreshments of sandwiches, cake, cocoa,
tea, sweet cider and homemade fudge
were served. They received some presents and a sum of money.

Isaiah Hazelton has purchased a horse
of Eben Barker as his other horse is lame.
Ruth Barker is stopping at home.
Nina Briggs, who has had a week's vacation from school, started in again
Monday, teaching in the Dresser district.

Our office devil insists that beauty is only skin deep, as they claim. But, he adds, some people have a hide as thick

ABOUT RHEUMATISM

What Thousands Have Found Gives Relief From This Painful Trouble.

Rheumatism is a constitutional disease, manifesting itself in local aches and pains, inflamed joints and stiff muscles. It cannot be cured by local or external applications. It must have constitutional treatment.

Take a course of the great bloodpurifying and tonic medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, which corrects the acid condition of the blood on which rheumatism depends, and gives permanent relief. This medicine combines, with excellent alternatives and tonics, what is generally conceded to be the most effective agent in the treatment of this disease.

If a cathartic or laxative is needed
take Hood's Pills. Purely vegetable.

"Y" CONVENTION AT DETROIT

Delegates Coming From All Parts Of U. S. and Canada.

New York.—The fortieth annual convention of the International Young Men's Christian Associations of North America will be held in Detroit from November 19th to November 23 inclusive. The sessions will be held in the Arena Gardens on Woodward Avenue and will be attended by delegates representing the hundreds of local Associations throughout the United States and Canada.

The convention will be devoted chiefly to dealing in a constructive way with large questions of policy.
Some indication of the lines of action to be taken is indicated by the fact that three special commissions have been appointed, one on the "Conservation of the values of the War Work," the second on the "Relationship of the Y. M. C. A. to the Churches" and the other on the "Occupation of the Field."

All of the commissions include in their membership men prominent in various lines of business and in the professions. The first named is headed by Joseph T. Alling of Rochester, of the firm of Alling and Corey paper manufacturers. The second commission has for its chairman, W.
Douglas Mackenzie of Hartford,
Connecticut, the president of Hartford Theological Seminary. The commission on the "Occupation of the Field" is under the chairmanship of L. A. Crossett, of Boston, the shoe manufacturer, who served as a special commissioner of the War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. to France in 1917. Associated with Mr. Crossett
as vice-chairman of the commission is Cyrus H. McCormick of Chicago, the president of the International Harvester Company.

Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary of the International Committee of Y.
M. C. A. Associations, regards this convention as the most important in the annals of the Association.
"In all the history of the Young Men's Christian Association, throughout its three-quarters of a century,
there never has been held an assembly presenting so many issues of first-rate and urgent importance," Dr.
Mott writes in an appeal for the attendance of the leading laymen of the Evangelical laymen at the convention. "Nothing short of the best thought and concerted action of the wisest, most trusted and influential laymen of all the evangelical forces of North America will suffice."

Some of the questions to be brought before the convention through the International Committee and the commissions already appointed are:
How to assimilate back into all that is best in American and Canadian life
the 4,800,000 young men, who recently served in the American Army and Navy and the 500,000 who constituted the Canadian Army?

How to stabilize the many millions of men in industry now surging with discontent?

How to satisfy the new aspirations
of the young men of rural communities, who through the war have been brought more fully into touch with the currents of the life of the world?

Racial problems of North America will also be considered. Methods will be discussed to make the ministry of the city Associations more truly community-wide.

The redefinition of the field and the reassertion of the distinctive mission of the Association in the light of the rise of new agencies, both secular and religious, so as to avoid friction, unwise duplication of effort and waste in financial expenditure, will be another matter which will claim the attention of the convention.

The extension of the work of the Association, and the methods of meeting the unsought, unexpected and unparalleled opportunities in the Allied Nations, the recently liberated and the newly created nations, especially those in the Near East, will be planned and discussed, together with the development of the work in virtually every field of Asia, Africa, and Latin America, where the Association is already established.

USE OF SACCHARINE IN FOOD MEANS MENACE TO HEALTH

County Agent G. A. Yeaton of Norway has compiled from the reports of the Bureau of Chemistry, Washington, D. C. some of the facts concerning the use of saccharine as a substitute for sugar.

In most cases housewives have turned to this substance in their emergency because they do not understand that saccharine is a harmful drug; to consider it a harmless healthful substitute for sugar is absolutely false, says the Government Chemists.

"The attempt to exploit the shortage of the properties of this substance, and charine for use in place of sugar endeavors to capitalize the lack of knowledge of the properties of the substance, and the Bureau of Chemistry feels called upon to reiterate the warning which it has given repeatedly in its publication," said Carl L. Alsberg chief of the bureau, as showing the extent of the present menace due to the public's not being properly informed.

There has been no scientific evidence adduced on the basis of which the department would be justified in any manner in altering its position or in taking any retrograde steps in warning the people against this menace. The department regards food to which saccharine has been added as adulterated since a substitute has been added to the food which may render it deleterious to health. It also regards it as adulterated in that a substance of no food value whatever has been substituted for sugar, a very valuable food. The department has now pending a criminal prosecution against one concern for the shipment interstate of a parcel of saccharine labeled as harmless. Furthermore a majority of the State prohibit the use of saccharine in food, either by statute or by regulation.

The W. C. T. U. committee is ready to receive contributions of food, canned goods, jellies, clothing, in fact, any serviceable material which might be distributed for Thanksgiving cheer. Eliza Noyes or Mrs. Walter Anderson will receive all donations. They wish to get in touch with families not provided with the usual comforts, and desire the addresses of the sick and shut-ins.

Jonathan Holmes, who has been living with his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Swett, will go to Cambridge, Mass., this winter, and live with his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Holmes.

Mrs. Walter Anderson entertained the Saturday Night Club at her home Nov. 15, with an extra table at bridge wharf. Fancy crackers, chocolates, apples and grape juice were served. The guests pronounced the evening a complete success.

THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Godden Tells How It May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. GODDEN, 925 Napoleon St., Frem

NORWAY AND VICINITY

HARKEN BACK ON THE PAST

Twenty-four years ago this week, the lower floor of the new shoe shop extension is laid and the walls going up. Contractor, Adams secured the brick of John Ordway of Oxford. Several teams are hauling from his kiln.

Minnie A. Plummer, of South Paris who returned recently from Europe, where she studied music under prominent artists, conducts large classes in vocal and instrumental music at Portland.

An attempt was made Sunday night to burglarize the South Paris Post office. Night watchman, Gammon, frightened them off after making one with a bullet.

Painters and Plumber are finishing the interior of the county building. It is planned to hold Probate court there in January.

The Eben Richardson old saw mill in Bethel village has been sold also the N. E. Richardson place adjoining. This mill is a landmark having turned out spool strips for many years during prosperous days. Now it has fallen into decay and a fire menace. The new owners will remove the ruins and improve the lot.

Burglars have been active this week. An attempt was made to enter Fred Swan's house on Crescent street, later the same night Frank H. Hurd was called up because of a noise near his window. Oxford reports an attempt made to force windows in Mrs. Mary Grant's house. Tramps broke into Chas. Brett's stable, South Paris, Monday night.

Hotel Ridlon in Ridlonville was opened to the public this week. Landlord Tucker has an up to date house. A wild cat scare is on in Harrison many persons keep in doors after sun set.

Defense of Giggling Girls
"We have been grumbling a good deal in the past about the manner in which girls giggle when nothing funny has occurred. But to show you that we are trying to be fair, we print Walter Chandler's defense of the giggling girl."

Give the silly, giggling, chewing girl a chance. Just because she is always giggling and smirking and talking of him is no sign that she will not come out all right. The light hearted, laughing girl is not a new product. Her mother and her grandmother before her were the same at her age.

You staid and solemn matron of forty; you were a silly, giggling girl twenty-five years ago, but you have forgotten it. You are astonished at the antics of the young girls nowadays, but you did the same things twenty-five years ago, or as near it as the customs of those days would permit. You would have worn silk stockings to school if the girls of your day had done so; the only thing that prevented it was the fact that it was not then customary.

Your mother and grandmother at the age of sixteen talked of nothing but the boys; giggled in the postoffice and chewed gum in Sunday school. The silly, giggling girl of today will in all probability be pointed out as a model wife and mother of her community in twenty years from now.

Give the silly, giggling girl a chance. Her heart is all right, but she is just now at the age when her brain is a whirl of contenting emotions, and needs nothing but the sobering influence of time to round her out into perfect womanhood. In God's own good time He will make her a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

Walter has brought up a big family of both boys and girls and he ought to know. We respect his opinion, anyhow.

Prosperity Begins at Home
Community prosperity is, or is not, as we of the community make it. Much money will be spent around here during the coming Christmas holidays. It is right that it should be so, for every normal person likes to partake of the joys of the yule time. But where will that money go?

Will the profits remain here, and continue to circulate in our midst and enrich our local community? Or will they go to foreign houses, and be forever lost to us who have produced them by our energy and our thrift? The answer is in our own hands.

Our local merchants will be well equipped for supplying our demands. The goods will be on their counters, where we can see them, judge as to their quality, and know what we get. And the name of a local dealer stands as a guarantee for everything he sells.

But if we buy abroad, we lose from our midst both the dealer's cost price and his profits. We never see them again, and our community is the poorer to the extent of the profits on every article not purchased at home. Which shall it be? A constructive Christmas, or a destructive one? Prosperity should begin at home.

Among the things of the late Jackson Clark was a charcoal brazier which dates back to pioneer days from the old original Bennett family who were among the first settlers in Norway. The charcoal brazier is about a foot high, 10 inches in diameter and resembles a small pail except that it is made of brick clay, an inch and a half thick and strapped by bands of metal. Half way inside of the "tub" is a clay grate under which charcoal is placed, a hole in the side answering as a draft. Three braces on the side of the upper part of the "tub" forms a place to rest the kettle. The charcoal brazier is the ancestor of our modern oil stove which was used in the days of fireplaces when a big fire was not needed for cooking purposes.

The Road—In New Overland 4 on Three-Point Cantilever Springs

YOU expect a bad road to ride as it looks. It did, until the introduction of the Overland 4 Springbase.

Overland 4 does not change the road, but it does change the manner in which you can ride on it. It gives you comfort instead of discomfort. It gives you a smooth, sailing sensation instead of bouncing and swaying.

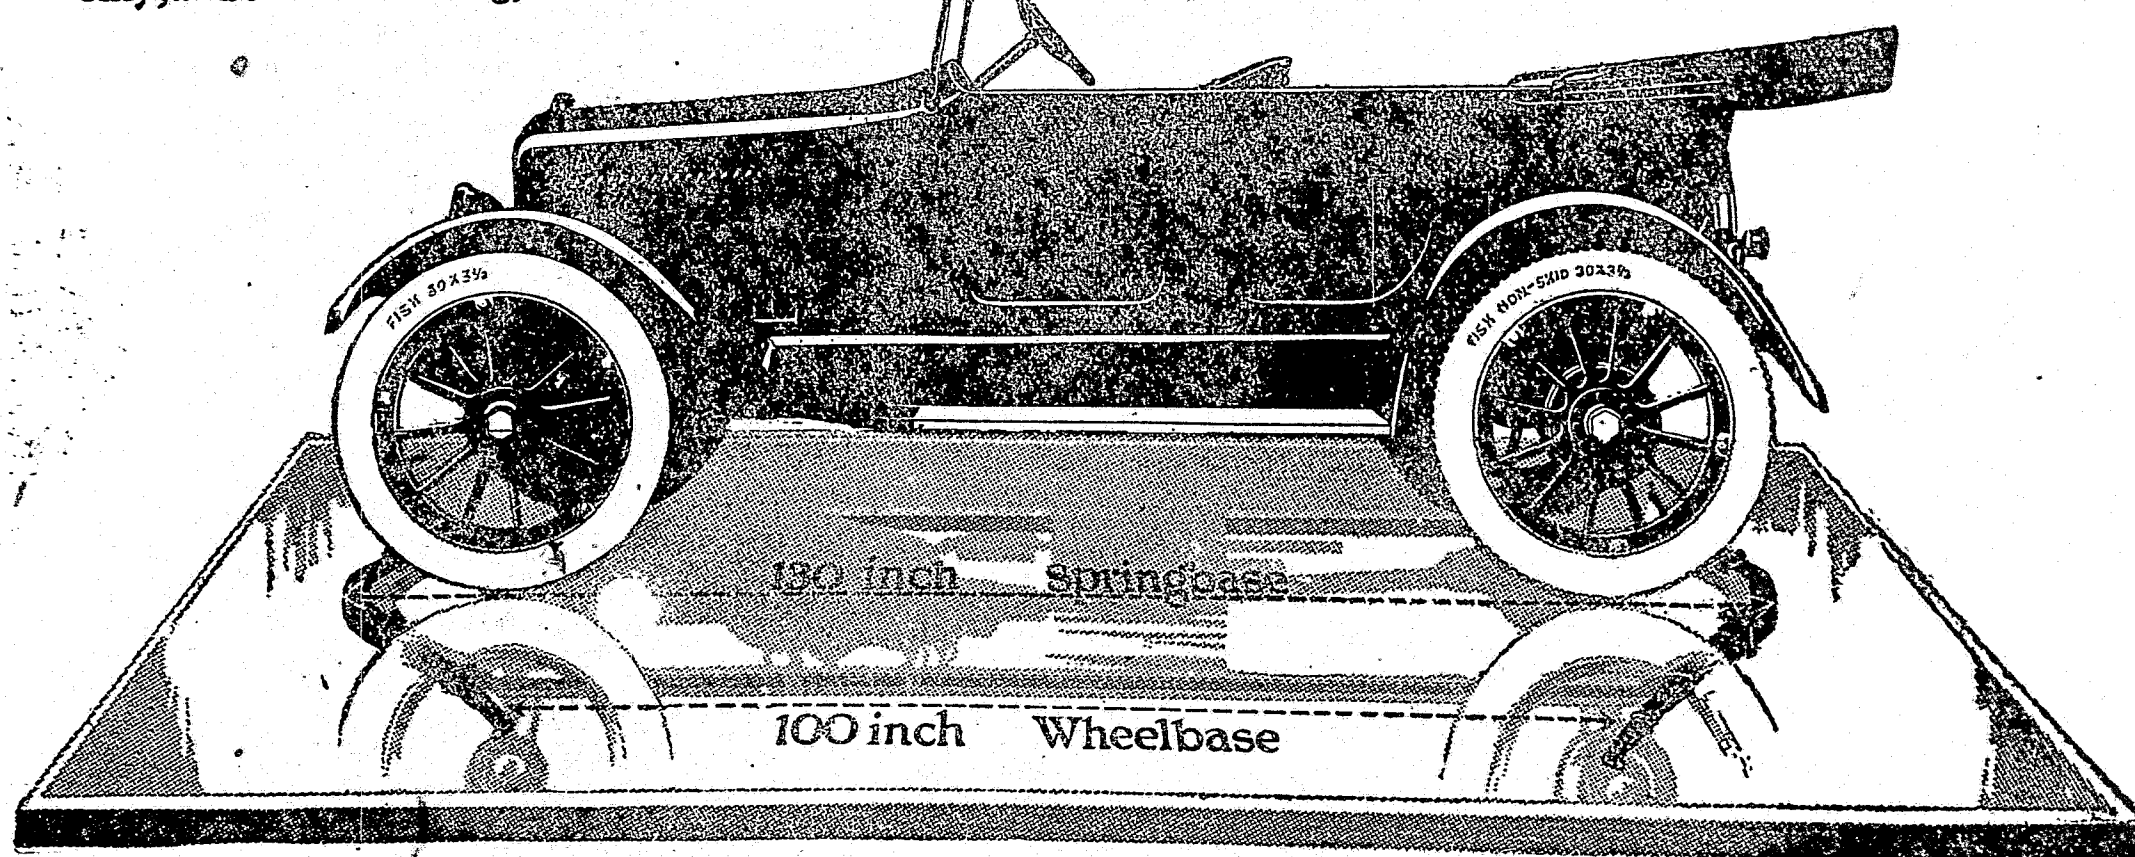

The Diagonal attachment of Three-Point Cantilever Springs at the ends of a 130-inch Springbase gives long wheelbase road steadiness. Yet Overland 4 retains all the advantages—lightness, economy, and ease of handling, of 100-inch wheelbase.

This means an altogether new standard of riding comfort, a noteworthy reduction in the wear and tear which lessens the efficiency of a car. The new springs give longer life to every part and thus minimize upkeep and replacement costs.

Tires wear longer because cushioned against hammering blows. Light weight means marked economy in gas, oil and running expense.

Overland 4's equipment is complete from Auto-Lite Starting and Lighting to Demountable Rims.

Come in and see this remarkable car. Ask for booklet. Overland 4 Touring, $845; Roadster, $845; Coupe, $1325; Sedan, $1375. Prices f. o. b. Toledo.
